CH-47 Nightmare-Six

"Twenty-six floats, two ramps, four interior bays and two Mk. boats. These are equipment that need to be airlifted by the choppers on to the river. We've been ready since yesterday, all equipment is ready 가 (130 meters) in twenty minutes with eight choppers. This is actually not a bridge, is more of a float. Purpose of this construction is to enable armor, vehicles and troops to cross rivers at location without bridges"

"Today our mission is to support the 50th Engineers with their bridge insertion mission. We try to support missions like this one as often as possible"

Nightmare Tirrell
L. Williams

Lory "In today's operation the choppers will lift two equipment at a time on to the river by the building order. Then our men will assemble those air-dropped ramps and floats on the river site. We already have two boats on the river for contingencies and providing security up and down the river. In real world situation, we can assemble a bridge of this size
